Picket line incidents; charges fly

Tempers and the legal battle between the Jefferson Union High School District and the striking American Federation of Teachers Local 1481 heated up Monday with incidents on the AFT picket lines in Daly City and the district and union filing charges against each other with the state Personnel Employment Relations Board.

Daly City police say they had to escort the first school bus out of the district bus yard in Daly City at about 6:20 a.m. Monday "inch by inch," as Police Lt. Phil LaBruzzo put it.

Officers walked with the bus for two blocks, finally threatening tightly-packed AFT pickets with arrest if they didn't disperse — which they did — LaBruzzo said.

Five buses and a power lawnmower left the yard by 7:30 a.m. with no further incidents there, he added.

But the pickets at the front entrance at nearby Jefferson High School had a run-in with cars entering the campus at about 8:30 a.m., according to reports, with one picket, Jefferson music teacher Don Berry, reportedly being carried 50 years on the hood of a car.

AFT spokesman Tom Fitzpatrick said the car entered the campus and struck Berry at the knees, knocking him onto the hood. The driver then apparently sped up and tried to shake him off by swerving, Fitzpatrick said.

One other picket was struck on the foot and two brushed back by cars passing through the picket line, Fitzpatrick went on.

LaBruzzo said one picket, Berry, had reported being hit, and wrote a statement for police Monday afternoon.

District spokesman Clay Kollmann said Monday the driver apparently was a substitute teacher coming through the picket line when four or five pickets draped themselves over the hood of the small car. All but Berry got off and he rode the car for abut 50 yards, Kollmann said.

There were no injuries reported at the school, Kollmann said, but Fitzpatrick claimed that four of the pickets had sought medical aid after the incident.

They included Jim Ahern, a Westmoor High teacher who was bruised, and Jackie Tokote, a Thornton counselor. One other striking teacher was knocked back from a car and another brushed, Fitzpatrick said.

Kollmann said the substitute teacher driving the car that Berry rode had had tires punctured when she parked off campus Friday, but added that reports of vandalism to non-strikers' cars have subsided in the past week.

In the charges that were filed and counter-filed with PERB, the district is charging the union with unfair labor practices and the AFT is saying the district refuses to negotiate.

District spokesman Dave Shepherd said he didn't know how long it would take for PERB to do anything with the charge, although Marcy Ballard, AFT president, said she expected PERB action on the union's complaint by Thursday.

The district charges the AFT with "gross violation of the Public Employement Relations Act by engaging in an illegal strike with first having gone through the mediation process and factfinding process established by law."

It claims the district always has negotiated in good faith with the AFT and notes that it has asked the state mediator assigned to this dispute for factfinding, which would pave the way for a study of the district's ability to meet union pay and rehiring demands of layed-off teachers and make recommendations.

The union has demanded binding arbitration of the pay dispute before it will go back to work.

In the union's counter charges, the AFT is seeking "injunctive relief" from PERB by saying that the school district has broken the law by failing to negotiate fairly.

If PERB goes along with the union, the matter will be referred to Superior Court, which could grant an injunction requiring the two bodies to negotiate.

"The district is guilty of breaking the law by refusing to meet and bargain in good faith."

Mrs. Ballard said. She added that at one point the district refused to negotiate for a nine-day period.

THE PICKETING CONTINUES

Students are picketing the Jefferson Union High School District offices with a plea to end the strike. As of Tuesday, the district said that 56 percent of its students (3,651) were attending class, and 38 percent of its teachers (112) were in the classroom.

Block grant plan faces alternatives

Three alternatives for citizen participation in planning the Community Block Grant Program were presented to the Daly City City Council Monday night by its General Plan Citizens Advisory Committee.

The council listened to an analysis of the three alternatives and put the weighty matter over to its Oct. 8 meeting for a decision.

The GPCAC had been delegated the job of wrestling with the federal mandate, this one a decree from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, that the city restructure its block grant program to remain eligible for its annual $833,000 grant for urban renewal and improvements.

The GPCAC, structured for 32 members but with just 22 serving now, has been doing the yearly recommendations about how to use the federal money. But now, in the sixth year of the HUD handout program, HUD has said it wants more representation by more community, ethnic, age, income and neighborhood groups than just a "one-level" citywide body.

Of nine alternatives presented, three were formulated and given to the council Monday for its perusal, along with arguments of support for each.

The GPCAC had several meetings on the subject, with lively discussion which didn't abate at the council level.

Don Fleming, director of community development, the city staff liaison to the study meetings, said alternatives 5 and 9 "are usable, but would require a little polishing."

Aimed primarily at five census tracts in the older sections of Daly City, the alternatives varied in several aspects.

Alternative 4, offered by the Crocker Neighborhood Association and vociferously supported Monday night, basically would receive federal Housing and Community Development Act funds through the city, but would administer them with its own staff, which Fleming said would be a duplication of existing city staff functions.

The Neighborhoods Community Development Committee, as it would be known, would have 25 members, 20 of them from the "census tracts of need," the other five from all other tracts.

Alternative 5, formulated by Conrad Pavellas and Ernest Pezzola of the Original Daly City Protective Association, would be one-level, like the GPCAC, in that all proposals would be funneled through a single committee of nine specified neighborhood organizations and which would include the HUD requirements of racial, age and economic balance.

Alternative 9, presented by the GPCAC itself, would be a two-level structure, with a neighborhood improvement committee having primary responsibility for program development and a Community Development Block Grant Advisory Committee hearing NIC budget requests and proposals from city agencies and other independent proposals. Both would have direct lines

Dozen groups ask for federal funding

With $817,000 in federal revenue sharing funds to spend over the next fiscal year, the Daly City City Council Monday night got down to the unenviable task of deciding how to divide up one community organization after another made its pitch for a piece of it.

A dozen representatives of groups from all over the county asked for some during the public hearing. The council will make its decision at its Oct. 8 meeting, when it adopts its final 1979-80 fiscal budget. The revenue sharing funds are the last to be budgeted.

City Manager David R. Rowe has recommended that $569,000 be used for general city operations, $170,000 for capital outlay, $45,000 for city-operated health and social services and $33,000 for contract services with community organizations. It was the latter money that brought the bees buzzing.

Rowe said after the public hearing that requests for $154,000 had been

Testimony in Srock case ends

Testimony in the dismissal case of Stephan Srock, a Daly City police officer accused of misconduct on duty and suspended March 15, ended Friday, nearly two months after it had begun.

It may be November before a decision is rendered by the hearing officer, retired Superior Court Judge Louis B. Dematteis.

The actual hearing took six days, three in late July and three last week, ending at noon Friday at the Daly City Civic Center. City Attorney Al Polonsky and famed attorney Charles Garry, representing Srock, are to receive full transcripts of the hearing in three to four weeks, after which they will have 10 days to file final briefs of their cases for Dematteis to study. The judge conceded that it may be November before his decision is forthcoming.

The hearing was continued from July because of scheduling problems for both attorneys.

If Dematteis upholds the city's charges, his recommendation would go to City Manager David Rowe, who has the final authority to fire Srock. If he does so, Srock still could appeal to the city Personnel Commission and ultimately to the courts.

Should the judge find for Srock, he could be returned to duty. His suspension was with pay pending the outcome of his appeal.

Srock has been accused of misconduct during a routine traffic stop Feb. 3, he admitting he pointed his service revolver at a dog in the car; misconduct at the scene of an auto accident Feb. 23 near the Cow Palace; and keeping some property relating to a case at his home from Feb. 16 to March 26.

He denied any wrongdoing Friday in the case near the Cow Palace.

Garry read a memorandum from Capt. Roger Austin to the uniformed division written last November, which called Srock's duty performance "marginal," and that he had had difficulty in relations with his superiors, and asked that commander's opinion of holding up a merit pay increase. The answer was negative, Garry pointed out, based on insufficient reason.

Srock, under questioning by Garry, said his relations with some other officers had been good until that incident, but cooled markedly afterward.

Srock also has received two written reprimands, several citizen complaints against him and a one-day suspension for various violations of department rules during his four years on the force, according to the testimony, but also has been awarded several commendations, the latter submitted into evidence by Garry.

In answer to Garry's final question, Srock said he thought he could be a good policeman if reinstated.

Testimonial dinner on tap

Markovich retires; 27 years at chamber helm

The flyers are out, tickets are on sale and the promotion is on for one of Daly City's major social events of the year, the coming retirement dinner for Peter J. Markovich, stepping down after 27 years as manager of the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce.

The retirement and testimonial dinner will be Nov. 9 at the Brentwood Lodge in South San Francisco, put on by the Chamber, with tickets at $16 each.

He officially retires as of Dec. 31. But, the gravel-voiced Markovich says, don't expect him to just go away.

He's a golfer, not a traveler, so while wife Jean talks about a shipboard cruise to Alaska and Markovich nods that that looks like fun, his eye is riveted on the Lake Merced Golf and Country Club course, where his rusting golf game awaits his attention.

Markovich, 69, is finishing up 27½ years as Chamber manager and just recovering from gall bladder and appendix surgery, which kept him home for eight weeks until returning to work Sept. 17. "I was going crazy, just laying there watching TV," he said.

"I think I'll just take it easy the first six months. The cruise to Alaska sounds like fun. But I've only golfed about 10 rounds in the past year, and I used to be a pretty good scratch golfer, winning some one-day tournaments and things like that. I plan to do some catching up," he said this week.

After that, he went on, he's debating whether to obtain a real estate license. "I've been asked by a big firm to come in," he said, but declined to name it.

Born in Oakland a few years after the big earthquake in which his Yugoslav parents lost two restaurants, Markovich came with the family to Daly City in 1911 and has been there ever since.

As a southpaw pitcher at the then-new Jefferson High School, he recalled pitching the Indians to their first-ever league championship in 1926. He won football and baseball scholarships to USF, but chose instead to play football for Slip Madigan at St. Mary's, but was injured in practice so badly before his first game as a freshman that when the team physician told him he was through for the season, he replied, "Doc, I'm through, period."

But Markovich organized the St. Mary's golf team before his graduation in 1933, returning then to Daly City to go into the insurance business and participate in many, many civic, business and charitable functions in the city over the years.

Markovich, Marshall Sanders and Fred Martin set up the Chamber in 1954, after three previous unsuccessful tries, with Markovich taking over as manager and secretary then at a salary of $1,000 a year. As the postwar boom brought more new residents and businesses to the city, the Chamber has grown, with Markovich later becoming a full-time manager.

His pay was up to $14,600 a year when Proposition 13 shut the door on financial assistance from the city of

Daly City, and he voluntarily took a $2,500 pay cut this year.

The Chamber in the past two years had endured considerable belt-tightening, with the $34,000 in hotel-motel tax money derived from the city in the past years gone and a request in now for a $20,000 appropriation in the new budget to keep things going and perhaps restore some programs, such as college scholarships for local high school graduates and the publicity-gathering Miss Daly City Pageant.

Promotion of Daly City as a good place to live and work has been Markovich's life, and cutbacks and loss of identity in the city have hurt him deeply. One of his major accomplishments with the Chamber, he said, was getting a postmark for Daly City. "I always wanted Daly City to be publicized throughout the world," he said. "Our mail was postmarked from San Francisco for a long time."

With the help of the late Congressman J. Arthur Younger, the Chamber got the city's top business people to work on the Post Office and Daly City postmarks became a reality 16 years ago. But, Markovich said sadly, the Post Office changed things around again two years ago and now everyone, including his beloved Daly City, has lost its postmark identity to a San Francisco mail-handling facility.

His other top accomplishment, he thought, was getting Thornton Beach developed as a state beach in 1961, after considerable lobbying in Sacramento.

Markovich said he's retiring now because "They probably need new blood around here, a younger fellow. Besides, I should be collecting Social Security - I've been eligible for four years now."

What the Chamber will do for a new manager hasn't been decided, pending more funding from the city. Dues were doubled last year, but 55 of over 300 of its members then dropped out, and a membership drive is in the offing.

Salaries range from $12,500 to $32,000 a year for Chamber managers around the state, Markovich said, plus medical care plans. He's covered by a medical plan now through his insurance business, operated by his wife and a son, so he hasn't needed it from the Chamber, he said.

Name anyone who has done anything in Daly City and Markovich likely has had dealings with him. He set up his first insurance office at 6454 Mission St., near "the top of the hill," where the Matthews TV and stereo store is now.

His partners were three other Jeff High graduates - Frank Blum, who went on to become a Superior Court judge in San Mateo County; Arnold Panella, a successful insurance broker on his own; and the late Paul Green, a mayor of Daly City. Markovich's office is at 6654 Mission St. now.

In his public roles, Markovich lays claim to some prominent accomplishments. As president of the Jefferson Union High School District Board of Trustees, on which he was a member from 1947 to 1953, Markovich said he bought the land now occupied by Westmoor High School "for a song," 52 acres of ranchland and artichoke fields for $16,025 an acre. In 1952 he got 28 acres of the Oceana High School site for $1,950 an acre. Ten acres added to the site later cost the district $10,000 per, he recalled.

With Frank Pacelli, another former Daly City mayor, Markovich worked on a committee that persuaded the Catholic Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul that they should build their planned hospital in Daly City, and 12 years ago the imposing Mary's Help Hospital was constructed on a hilltop overlooking the entire city.

With Blum as chairman and himself as treasurer, Markovich was part of a nonprofit corporation that floated bonds, tax-free for investors, for the new Daly City Civic Center, which opened in 1971.

His most memorable golfing accomplishment, besides meeting his wife-to-be at the Lake Merced course, was a record 517-yard double eagle there, "but I suppose that record has been broken by now," Markovich said.

Tickets for the testimonial dinner, at which much more of Markovich's past will be chronicled, may be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce, 312 90th St., Daly City 94015, phone 755-8526, with Oct. 15 the reservations deadline.

to the City Council, the NIC on an appeal basis.

All three alternatives would meet the HUD guidelines on makeup, but would differ otherwise. Alternative 5 would have a 20-member committee, only one at-large from the community, and Alternative 9 would have 15, 10 from the five census tracts and 5 GPCAC members representing the community at large.

Pavellas called Alternative 5 "simple by workable." He noted also that "We feel we can get the low-income people to come forward. That's hard to do."

Pezzola said the target area has a slightly larger percentage because that's where the work is needed. "The ODCPA area has no tot lots. All the other neighborhoods do," he charged.

"It will be there, I'll guarantee you that," Councilman Anthony Giammona replied.

Mrs. Susan Sweeney, 604 Gellert Blvd., a GPCAC member, told the council the alternative 5 backers "had added specific slots for specific groups" and that 9 would "remove neighborhood groups from a direct link with the council." She asked that the council approve "the best aspects" of 5 and 9.

Harold Calder of the Crocker group argued for alternative 4, saying a large membership is needed to represent all groups. "I think you're afraid of administrative costs," he went on.

filed by these groups. As has happened during the past 10 years of cutting up the revenue sharing pie, not all will get what they ask for, but Rowe said "The council has been known to add something."

The speakers and their requests:

Connie Mitchell, assistant director of Friends to Parents, $6,000 for operating expenses and $1,500 for capital outlay. FP serves as far away as San Mateo, but lists many clients and volunteers from Daly City and so far has received $5,000 from South San Francisco;

Betty Follens, Bay Area Planning Council, $9,000 for capital outlay for its infant care center at Vista Grande School in Daly City;

Lucy Muir, Center for Independence of the Disabled, $2,850 to match a grant to get a center in Belmont going, which could serve many of Daly City's 4,000 physically and sensory handicapped;

Jesus Carbajal and Dolores Ferguson, International Institute in San Mateo, with a six-month-old service center in Daly City, $28,000 for two employees to keep education, counseling and unduplicated assistance programs going for immigrants and refugees arriving here;

Hortensio Lopez, executive director of the Neighborhood Services Center, and Tim Dayunot of Gov Edmund G. Brown, Jr.'s office, $2,500 for a housing repair program and $2,500 for a Filipino socio-demographic survey of needs, problems and habits of Filipinos in the Daly City area;

Miriam Gholikely, Daly City Senior Citizen Center Advisory Council, $27,022 for two employees to get a program going;

Ann Cooper, Bayshore Child Care Services, $9,996 for one employee to replace two lost federally-funded CETA workers;

Marilyn Vall, Serramonte Nursery Day Care, $7,000 for equipment for two new facilities at Vista Grande School;

Clara Haynes, project director of Daly City Youth Projects, $35,337 for three employees and administrative costs for the program for the year;

Helen Moses, chairwoman of the Daly City Parents Thrift Shop, $24,414 for two employees to operate the store, a fund-raiser for families in need.

Councilman William Schumacher told Carbajal and Ms. Ferguson that he viewed their agency for incoming foreigners as a federal responsibility. Ms. Ferguson said they had been operating with CETA money from the city before and Carbajal noted that the organization was getting no help from anywhere else in the county.

A light touch enlivens California League annual session

By TERRY DAVENPORT
Times Staff Writer

Shaking his finger and furrowing his brow, James Boren was the picture of sincerity as he lectured the 2,000 representatives from 420 cities attending the 81st annual League of California Cities conference Monday.

"When in charge, ponder! When in trouble, delegate! When in doubt, mumble!" he barked, then launched into a barely audible tirade of "bureaucratese" that had the city officials roaring with laughter.

His luncheon speech on his tongue-in-cheek organization, the International Association of Professional Bureaucrats, was a welcome relief from the intense workshops that delegates had attended all morning.

Yet the theme was similar. In a brief somber moment, Boren admitted that he began his organization because he was frightened by the waste of human talent caused by layer upon layer of unnecessary government.

Speakers at other sessions also emphasized the need for local officials to inspire confidence that will cause the public to change its grim opinion of government.

Sunday, San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein interpreted these lean, post-Proposition 13 times as a "new era for public officials" and called upon cities to work together through the League.

Boren's light approach toward the problem was the hit of the first two days of the conference.

A self-described authority on inaction and creative non-responsibility, Boren explained that he got his background in bureaucracy in the "graduate school of mumblers," the State Department.

He is a candidate for vice president — for both parties — on the platform that "red tape binds our nation together."

In one of his first studies of governmental efficiency, he mailed a letter Special Delivery from Washington, D.C., to Philadelphia and dispatched another copy on the same route on the same day — by horse.

Boren's "pony express" beat the U.S. Postal Service by eight days.

The pipe-smoking, stout man said one of the primary purposes of his organization is "to give recognition to those who apply the principles of inaction, because by preventing things from happening they prevent mistakes from being made."

His organization has handed out 44 "Order of the Bird" awards for accomplishment of that goal. Recipients of the 3-foot-high, 25-pound statue of a bird in "squatistic profile," as Boren describes it, include:

• The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, for halting construction in a portion of a small Missouri town. Boren said the agency decided that a flooded roadside ditch that trickled into the Mississippi after a rain storm was a tributary of the great river and, thus, the land around it fell under the agency's jurisdiction.

• The city of Long Beach, for failing to fix a dip in a road that was so severe it caused a fire engine to spill its equipment and be late to a fire.

• The Farmers Home Administration and the Department of Housing and Urban Development, for making a small city applying for assistance with a water and sewage system go back and forth between the two agencies and finally announcing, "You're not big enough. Come back when you get a better water and sewage system."

Boren said he is thinking about giving his award to two other agencies:

• The Occupational Safety and Health Administration, for two offenses: requiring a one-man mine operation to have two-way radio communication and making workers building a dam wear life preservers — despite the fact that the river had been diverted 5-1/2 miles away.

• The California Department of Transportation, for telling a city that work on a highway had been postponed, because "in order to avoid delays in this project further on down the line, we've decided to have the delays now."

Then he started up the contraption and, as it rattled, clattered, jingled and waved its flags, he lectured, "You see, this is the importance of image. It's not the message. It's the roar."

Thomas Fletcher had some serious suggestions for city officials who want to avoid the financial and personal toll that corruption in government can cause.

As director of Stanford Research Institute's Center for Urban and Regional Policy, the grey-haired and bewhiskered man has studied how American cities avoid and recover from scandals by city council members and city employees.

His primary advice to government officials is to set a good example. Fletcher said that during his 30 years as a city manager of various California cities and deputy mayor of Washington, D.C., he:

• Never accepted free lunches, admission tickets or gifts.

• Forbid city employees to accept Christmas gifts.

• Let city building inspectors know that spot-checks and audits would be made.

• Instituted independent audits of management employees.

He advised city officials who discover act of corruption to publicize the transgression and its punishment.

"Don't let the employee resign quietly," he said.

Fletcher stressed that good management is the best way to avoid scandal. On the other hand, he said too much regulation is not desirable because it sometimes challenges employees to find a way around it — "and they usually can."

He gave as an example a medium-sized city that tightened its building inspection regulationns after it discovered inspectors taking bribes.

Fletcher said the tougher regulations doubled the time it took a builder to pass inspection — and resulted in twice the previous level of corruption.

He urged officials to spell out exactly what is expected of their employees and to give them the training they need to do their jobs.

Illustrating the point that a little corruption leads to more, he told of a mid-Western city that allowed its employees to take a little time off to fix appliances at home.

Fletcher said the city eventually discovered, to its horror, that one department head had built a fully-equipped airplane on city time.

Another workshop speaker, William O'Malley, district attorney of Contra Costa County, told of a BART director who charged $27,000 worth of expenses to the district, including a trip to Nice, France.

O'Malley and Fletcher warned city officials to look for possible corruption in city policies involving the taking of compensatory time off, land interests among city council members and planning commissioners, use of city equipment by city employees and allowing employees to obtain discounts on equipment purchase with city purchase order.

Fletcher recalled that one city council member who purchased four tires using his city's discount privileges wound up spending a year in jail — along with the city employee who purchased the tires for him.

Residents revile 'breeding ground for snakes, rats'

Homeowners living in San Bruno's Belle Air district used to call the large vacant field adjacent to Seventh Avenue the "Cow Pasture."

Now they call it "a headache," "an eyesore," and a lot of other names that are unprintable.

Bounded by Seventh Avenue on the west, San Bruno Avenue on the north, Highway 101 on the east and a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. substation on the south, the long field belongs to San Francisco International Airport.

It no longer provides fodder for cows. About 20 residents told an airport representative last week at a neighborhood Citizens Action League meeting that it is a feeding and breeding ground for rats, snakes and mosquitoes who crawl, slither and fly to their homes next door.

They also told Harold Craycroft, maintenance coordinator for the airport, that they consider the tall, scraggly weeds covering the land to be a fire hazard and that they want an open sewer located just over a fence from Belle Air School to be covered.

Craycroft was in the awkward position of trying to explain why a previous airport spokesman meeting with them last March had not followed through on all his promises. He vowed to return to the next Citizens Action League meeting Oct. 17 with a progress report.

She said rats scurry under the fence dividing her backyard from the field within a few minutes after she puts food out for her pet dogs.

"I'd like to leave food out for my puppies but I can't. The rats come right over and grab it," she explained.

Vaseo and Eltine DeLucca live across Seventh Avenue on at 648 E. Angus Ave. and they, too, are bothered by rats.

"I've killed about 10 rats on my property within the last three weeks," said DeLucca.

His wife said their cat has caught four snakes, ranging from 2 to 3 feet in length. One bit the cat and caused it to lapse into a coma overnight.

"I saw three kids from Belle Air School down the street," said Mrs. DeLucca, "and they told me, 'Don't go in that field. It's full of rats.' Imagine kids going to school next to a place like that!"

Linda Collins, who lives at 600 Seventh Ave., said she never has seen rats but has seen her share of snakes and is bothered by mosquitoes that breed in gulleys in the field.

Mrs. Collins said the gulleys are so deep that "kids have buried Volkswagens in them twice."

However, she was pleased that a firm called Peninsula Community Services of South San Francisco had offered to provide rat abatement for her home for free.

(The organization is funded with a federal grant under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.)

The neighbors believe they can work with the airport to lick this problem, because they've been successful in solving other problems in the past, such as getting stop signs installed and getting streets repaired.

As they shouted to make themselves heard over the roar of jets departing from the nearby airport, no one mentioned the obvious problem of airport noise.

The activist neighborhood no doubt is saving that issue for a future Citizens Action League meeting.

THE DIET CORNER

By Elise Gendar

Statistics tell us that the number of people living alone these days is on the rise. Many women have opted for the single life. For others, divorce or widowhood has made it a necessity.

Some have discovered, sometimes to their surprise, that there are a number of advantages to being the sole inhabitant of your own snug home.

You can read the evening away, watch whatever you wish on TV, play the records you like, entertain or not, go out to eat, or stay home. You just have yourself to please. You're trying to lose pounds you can please yourself a little too much if you're not careful. There are pitfalls for the live-alone dieter, so beware!

Who will know if you slip off your diet and eat the whole bag of pretzels? You'll know when you step on the bathroom scale.

Why have things on hand that you know will tempt you to overindulge? You really don't have to think about anyone else's food tastes when you go to the supermarket.

Something to beware of when marketing is stocking up on your favorite foods and forgetting about a balanced diet. Being good to yourself means taking care of your health.

Often find yourself eating from the coffee table, or while reading a book, or while watching television, you've fallen into another of the pitfalls. Set the table properly, sit down, and concentrate on eating. It's easy to overeat if your mind is on something else.

You're in danger of eating too fast, as well, when you eat alone. It takes 20 minutes for the message that you're full to be relayed from your stomach to your brain. You can pack in a lot of calories in 20 minutes!

Your fork between bites and daydream a little. Daydreaming is an indulgence that won't add inches to your waistline.

Be good to yourself, especially on a night that you get home from work late. Try this terrific shrimp recipe. It makes two portions, so you can freeze half of it and heat it ep on another night when you're late getting home.

POLYNESIAN STIR-FRY SHRIMP

1 lb. shrimp, clean, uncooked
¼ cup soy sauce
⅛ tsp. ginger
½ tsp. garlic powder
2 cups chopped celery
3 green peppers, cut in strips
½ cup liquid, water or bouillon
1 cup pineapple chunks, packed in its own juice, drained.

1. Marinate shrimp in soy sauce, ginger and garlic powder for one hour.
2. Set electric fry pan at 325 degrees and stir-fry green peppers, and celery, using small amounts of liquid.
3. Add shrimp, stir-fry until shrimp is cooked, 5-7 minutes.
4. Add drained pineapple and simmer 5 minutes.
5. Sprinkle paprika over each serving. Serves 2.

If you would like a month of motivation, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

A handy item to have on the pantry shelf is canned pork and beans. Gussied up with a dash of brown sugar and tomato catsup, with chopped onions to give it added zest and topped with hot dogs, it makes a quick and easy casserole.

Brown bread, spread with butter is a perfect accompaniment to beans and franks. It's made with yogurt, whole wheat flour, wheat germ, raisins and walnuts . . . the list of ingredients tells why it tastes so wholesome.

YOGURT BROWN BREAD

2½ cups whole wheat flour
½ cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup dark raisins
½ cup chopped walnuts
2 cups plain yogurt
½ cup light molasses
1 egg

Combine the one-half cups whole wheat flour, half-cup wheat germ, two teaspoons soda, one teaspoon salt, half-cup each raisins and walnuts.

Add the two cups yogurt, half-cup molasses and egg, stirring to blend evenly.

Spoon batter into four greased and floured 1-pound cans (commonly used for canned fruit and vegetables).

Bake in 350-degree oven about 1 hour or until pick inserted into center comes out dry. Cool 15 minute in cans then invert onto racks to cool.

Makes 4 loaves. Freezes nicely.

ZUCCHINI BREAD

2 cups raw chopped zucchini
3 eggs, well beaten
1 cup oil
2 cups sugar
3 cups flour
1½ teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups chopped nuts

Chop the zucchini fine, making two cups, drain very well, pressing out moisture. Beat the three eggs well, add the two cups sugar and one cup oil.

Sift together the three cups flour, one and one-half teaspoons soda, one teaspoon each baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Add to the creamed mixture and beat well. Add the teaspoon vanilla and two cups nuts. Lastly, fold in the zucchini.

Grease two loaf pans and divide dough into each. Bake in 350-degree oven for 80 minutes or until the bread tests done with a straw. Cool completely before cutting.

READYING FOR BOOK FAIR (Dave Dornias Photo)

Plans are being made for the Harvest Book Fair of the Friends of the Daly City Library which is scheduled Oct. 6, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., in the Garden Court and environs, Westlake Shopping Center. This achievement signifies his successfl completion of studies in the area of behavioral science, criminal law, forensic science, education-communication and management science.

In addition, he received training in firearms and physical training.

"As a result of his accomplishments he has enhanced his potential as a future leader in the law enforcement profession. He is the eighth member of the Daly City Policy Department to attend and graduate from the FBI National Academy," said Chief David A. Hansen.

Sgt. Thomas G. Reese will attend an 11-week tour of training at the FBI National Academy, Quantico, Va., early next year. This was announced by Chief Hansen. He will be the ninth member of the Daly City Police Department to so attend.

Samuel Chandler

"Mr. Chandler, I'm mad! During the 12 years my daughter has been in the public schools she has suffered four strikes." Me too! And I get madder every day as I see the teachers in their sloppy sweaters and ill-fitting blue jeans walking the picket lines like throw-backs to Big Bill Heywood and Mother Mary Jones.

But wait a minute. We have been told, over and over, that what we are experiencing would happen, and we have not listened. As long ago as 1942 Dr. John T. Wahlquist of San Jose State University wrote, "After the theorist has had his say, American education remains in the hands of teachers. From many viewpoints, this is unfortunate."

Wahlquist continued, "If the profession as a whole were more experienced and more mature and more certain of itself, we would feel safer in leaving the fate of education in the hands of teachers."

Control of the schools is the real issue behind the demands of local bands of striking teachers. As a union official put it, "The American Federation of Teachers is determined to control the public schools of the United States. And someday it will. Just as the American Medical Association controls American medicine and as the American Bar Association controls the legal profession."

The words of this labor leader may be found in the foreward of "Teachers and Power: the Story of the American Federation of Teachers" by Robert J. Braun (Simon and Schuster, $7.95). Let disturbed parents and disgusted students read them and understand. "And why not?" the AFT leader continued as he spoke of teachers rather than school boards controlling the schools: "Better an organization of teachers should control the schools than some hack politicians or the local banker."

The author, Braun, who is a journalist and an observer, wrote, "It is useless to argue with this man about the ultimate desirability of a public school system which is genuinely public and open to participation by a broad cross section of the local populace. He is a warrior in a cause, and he believes the cause to be just . . . His job is to organize a local, win a collective bargaining election, prepare timid teachers for a strike and then force angry teachers back to work on a negotiated contract."

BOOK REVIEWS

City Librarian Samuel Chandler, who will present short stories with a California setting by authors from Bret Harte to the present time for the first book review of the Friends of the Daly City Library's 1979-80 series, discusses with The Friends' Book Review Chairman Kathryn Jovik. The review will be Sept. 27, 10 a.m., in the community room, Serramonte Library, 40 Wembley Drive. The public can attend.

EARLY FOSSILS

The earliest known fossils of living organisms on earth are about three billion years old.

Internal parasites

By DR. DAVID R. BARNETT

The reproductive system will be examined for any abnormalities.

Today many pets are being spayed and neutered for reasons other than birth control.

For example, neutering of male dogs and cats reduces the incidence of prostate disease and some types of cancer.

Neutering also may help eliminate or modify some behavorial problems.

Spaying or an ovariohysterectomy eliminates the possibility of pyrometra, a serious uterine infection. Ovariohysterectomies also virtually eliminate the incidence of breast cancer if completed before the first "heat" period.

Laboratory tests may also be performed on pets to check for worms or internal parasites, skin parasites, bacteria, fungi and mange mites.

There are five common internal parasites which can infect dogs and cats, and each produces distinctive-looking eggs. For example, by examining a specially prepared stool sample under a microscope, the eggs will identify the specific parasite infesting the pet. The common parasites include: hookworms, whipworms, roundworms and coccidia.

Tapeworms are also common in both cats and dogs. Tapeworms pass their eggs in individual tapeworm segments which are usually easy to detect. The segements cling to the stool or to the hairs in anal areas of the dog or cat. They look like flat grains of wheat or rice.

Fleas, mice or rabbits are common intermediate hosts for the tapeworm of the dog or cat.

Heartworms are a growing menace to dogs. Heartworms are now common in warm humid climates and are spreading to many areas of the United States. Check with your veterinarian about the degree of severity in your home area.

If heartworm is prevalent, most veterinarians routinely recommend and prescribe medication to prevent heartworms.

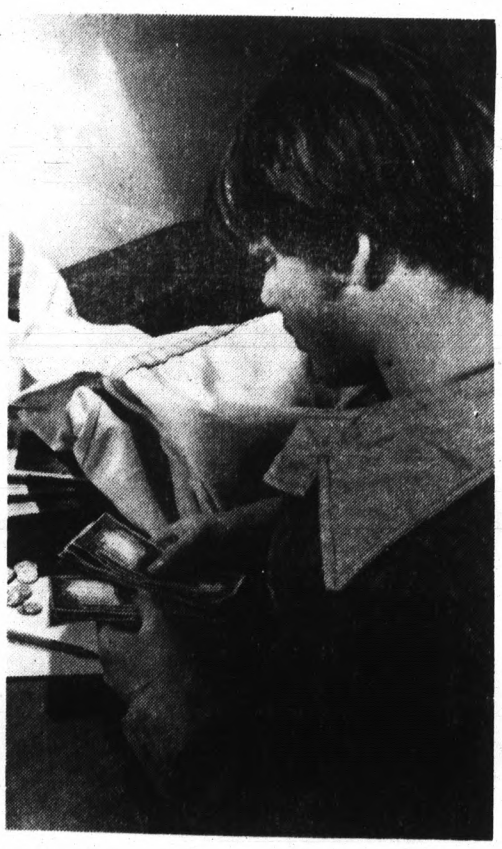
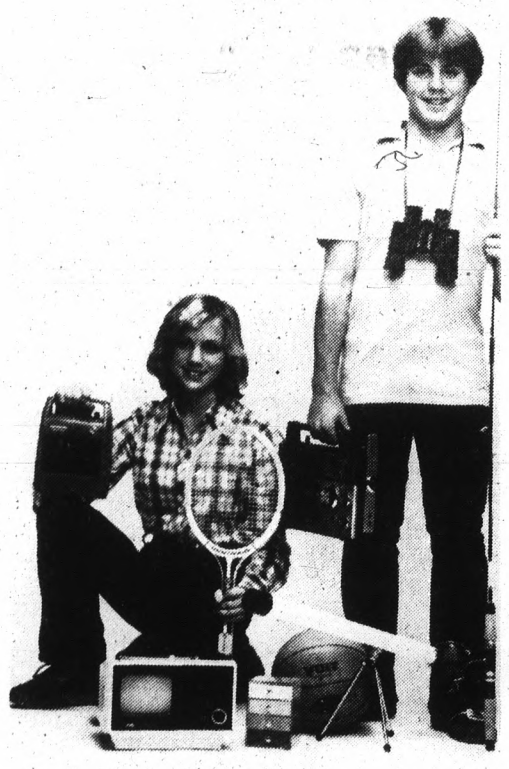
Be somebody. Be a carrier!



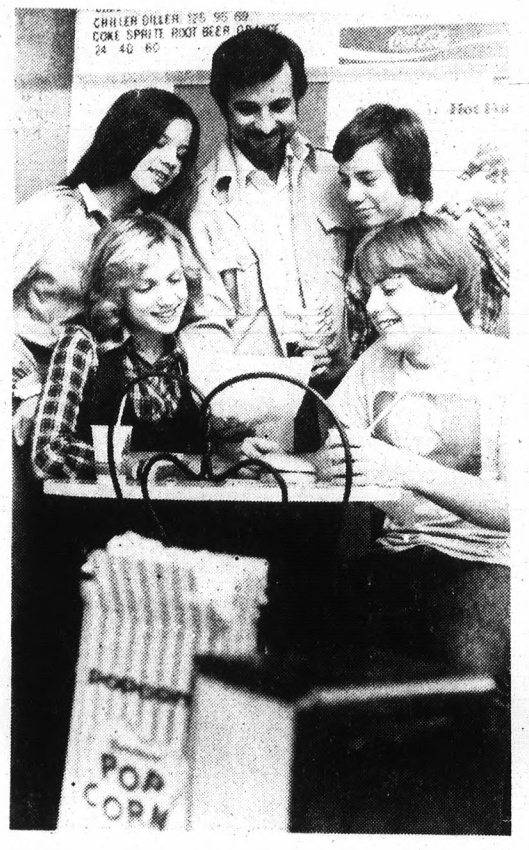
Earn money!

When you're a newspaper carrier, you earn money every week. Your own money! For clothes . . . records . . . hobbies . . . or for something special like a bike, a stereo or your own TV. Money to save for the future, too . . . for school or some other important expense. It's your money. You earn it, save it, spend it . . . and learn for yourself how to handle it wisely.



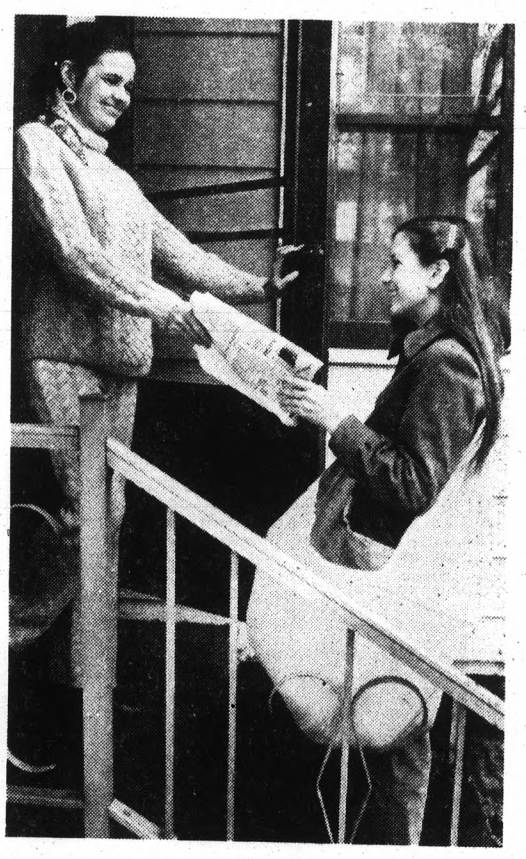
Win prizes!

Newspaper carriers also participate in sales contests with chances to win a lot of "extras"! You can earn extra cash . . . special trips . . . and great prizes! Sports equipment, television sets and stereos, watches and jewelry . . . there are dozens of valuable prizes to choose from. As a newspaper carrier, each new subscriber you sign up helps you win these "extras"!



Have fun!

Being a newspaper carrier is fun! As a carrier, you'll get to meet and work with others your age. You'll get to go to special meetings where you'll learn the art of selling. And when you're a top carrier, you'll get the chance to earn extra money, super prizes, and have some great times with other carriers. It's a terrific way to make new friends!



Be somebody!

When you're a newspaper carrier, you're not just a kid anymore. Being a carrier shows that you can do something important and do it well. Chances are you'll do better in school (most carriers do). And the things you learn about handling money and working with people will help you be successful in the future . . . no matter what you do!

If you're 10 years or older and want to do something important, find out more! Call 348-4411 or send in the coupon today!

Learning skills to work with children

Perspective

By ARVILLE FINACOM

Training begins next month for "Parent to Parent," a community resource project being developed cooperatively by Planned Parenthood Association of San Mateo County and 11th District, California PTA, which serves the same area. Currently, volunteers are being recruited from each PTA Council area.

The six-week course involves primarily the learning and practicing of communication skills valuable for work with children as well as other adults. Techniques for leading group discussion will be explored. Resources readily available in the community will be examined. A number of community professionals will conduct the free sessions.

One might ask how PPA and PTA come to be involved together in such a project.

Actually, the child welfare aims of both are very similar. PPA seeks to insure that children are nurtured with love and understanding and that their questions concerning sexuality and sexual practice are answered comprehensively.

PTA, although basically a school oriented group, has always been interested in the education of the "whole" person, knowing that the children sitting in the classroom carry with them constantly their entire experience in living.

Both groups have come to believe that parent education, education in "parenting" to be specific, can make the difference between a child aware of himself and his needs, unafraid of both his feelings and his future, and one who knows little and fears much.

But back to the beginning. Last Spring PPA and PTA met as colleagues at a Parent Education Conference sponsored by the California State PTA at Asilomar. Each PTA district not only sent representatives interested in the subject but invited persons from other local agencies to be part of area affiliated teams.

On the way back from the conference, Carole Didia, Parent Education commissioner for 17th District PTA; Barrie Sebastian, its VP-education, and Sylvia Block, director of education for PPA, San Mateo County, began to brainstorm ways in which their two days of experiences at the conference could be put to use.

In preliminary planning, they decided that a pair of trained parents, ideally a mother/father team, within each of the 11 PTA Council areas in San Mateo County,could serve as a resource to other parents in local communities.

The idea of a peer parent network caught the imagination of other PTA leaders. The 17th District PTA president, Helen Hausman, and VP/Health Jean Cloud, both fresh from a Comprehensive Health Education Conference sponsored by the California State PTA as part of a National PTA priority project, lent their support.

PTA Council presidents throughout the county were alerted and a plea for participants was published in "Seventeena," the monthly newsletter for the county wide PTA group.

To find out about the project in greater detail, I talked recently with Carole Didia and later with Sylvia Block and Carol Dilfer, PPA director of public information.

As background, Block explained how PPA believes parents want assistance in learning how to talk to children, especially in sexually specific matters.

In a time when peer pressure says, "be sexually active", and media glamorizes the "sex trip", many parents are confused as to how to state their own values. In fact, Block says, parents may ask themselves, "Are 'yesterday's' values of value today?"

Confronted with a situation they feel confused about handling, many parents say nothng at all, hoping that their kids will be able to cope with the very real and very strong pressures of peer values.

For many parents "doing nothing" becomes the easy way out. Although they recognize they "should" say or do something to give their children a basis for choices, they don't know how. Many are unaware that help is available from a number of community resouces.

Learning about these resources is a major thrust of the "Parent to Parent" project. More significant, however, will be the training in communication skills, which, hopefully, the trained parents will be able to share with others in their communities on a continuing basis.

Didia, Block and Dilfer stress that support for parents in teaching their own value system is the keystone. Parents in a group may have diametrically opposed views of a given value.

Westmoor loses to San Mateo

By San Mateo High fooball coach Buz Williams' calculations, the Bearcat gridders are 1-0 — after two pre-season games.

While that may defy every law of logic, the veteran mentor offers a practical explanation for his deduction.

"We tried to do a little coaching today. We felt the coaches lost last week's game (a 32-6 thrashing by Serramonte). The kids were willing to do what we told them to do — we just had them doing some of the wrong things," Williams said. "So I figure I stand 0-1 and they're 1-0."

The "undefeated" Bearcats scored their first victory of the non-league season Friday as they rallied in the second half to knock off host Westmoor 21-13. Westmoor is now 0-2.

. .In marked contrast to last week's dismal outing, S.M. was able to move the ball almost at will, rolling up an impressive 254 yards rushing and 388 overall.

"We got embarrassed last week. Everyone at school was talking about us," halfback Greg Blumenfeld noted. "We had hardly any yards total. We wanted to come back and win. We wanted it bad."

Blumenfeld was a major factor in the win, rushing for 139 yards including a critical fourth-quarter touchdown.

"I was just watching my guards today," the junior back said. "The guards were doing a good job, Ray Williams and Ron Kurtz. The linemen were just opening the holes, and they were there all day."

"They were giving us the wide, and then they gave us the off-tackle, and both of them are Greg's play. We just tried to take what they gave us," Williams said.

After Westmoor opened the scoring on a Tom Orloff to Stuart Ramirez' 23-yard touchdown pass, the Bearcats knotted the score on a five-play scoring drive capped by quarterback Dave Stanton's one-yard sneak.

Despite rolling up more than 200 yards in the first half, thad was the only score the Bearcats achieved. But Williams was not discouraged.

"I was very pleased with our efforts. I knew we had played a good first half regardless of the score. They had two good touchdowns, but they were not drives. I knew our defense was going to be solid," Williams said.

Indeed, San Mateo's defense stiffened in the second half, allowing the Rams only 82 yards and no points, shutting off the potent Orloff-Ramirez connection (even though Westmoor has gone back to its old potent offense).

San Mateo tallied the go-ahead touchdown in third quarter on a Stanton-to-James Daily 16-yard aerial, culminating a time-consuming 19-play, three-penalty drive. Adam Haysbert, who enjoyed a fine day with 82 yards rushing and four receptions for 76 yards, kicked the crucial extra point.

Westmoor tried to come back, but the Bearcats stopped three Ram drives on downs to ensure their first win of the season. An "undefeated" season.

Terra Nova falls to Hillsdale

Sports
And Recreation

In order to stop Hillsdale High's football team this season, it looks like opposing defenses are going to first have to chop down its Redwood.

Running back Eric Redwood, that is.

Visiting Terra Nova didn't come close to having enough buzzsaws on defense to cut off the Redwood Friday, as the talented back provided almost all of Hillsdale's offense, leading the Knights to 20-7 victory.

Hillsdale is now 1-0-1; Terra Nova is 0-2.

Redwood gained 185 of Hillsdale's 265 yards total offense, including scoring scampers of 41 and 59 yards. He carried 15 times for a whopping 12.3 average per run.

The remainder of Hillsdale's offensive yardage also came on running plays. The Knights threw just three times for no yards.

Excluding Redwood and some tough defense when it counted, Hillsdale played a rather unimpressive game and head coach Neal Dahlen was the first to admit it. "Other than being happy with the win, I felt we played rather ragged," said Dahlen. "This win gives us nothing to celebrate. We still have a long way to go.

"The best thing we accomplished in this game," continued Dahlen, "is that I got a chance to look at some players on the game films. We're not nearly ready to play in league, yet."

The first 12 minutes of the contest was like a slow-motion tennis match. Most of the action occurred in the middle of the field. Both offenses consistently sputtered.

Moments into the second quarter, Hillsdale finally livened up the tempo when quarterback Todd Welch dropped a swing pass off to Steve Dean, who in turn handed off to Redwood. Redwood found all daylight down the left sideline for a 41-yard scoring run.

Terra Nova handed the ball right back on a fumble on the kickoff return, but Hillsdale failed to move and missed a 26-yard field goal attempt.

Two plays later, Terra Nova was in a generous mood again. Scott Hall intercepted an errant pass and Hillsdale had the ball just inside TN territory. The Hillsdale offense couldn't find forward gear again and, after losing 23 yards on two plays, punted the ball back to set up Terra Nova's lone scoring drive of the afternoon.

Aided by 23 yards in penalties against Hillsdale, Terra Nova moved 54 yards on nine plays and scored when quarterback Rick Miller hit running back Tim Bender with a swing pass; Bender sidestepped nine yards into the end zone. The Tigers converted the extra point and led 7-6 with just 2:29 remaining in the half.

Following the kickoff, Hillsdale took mediocre field position on its own 25. But Welch changed that with a 24-yard run on first down. On the next play, Redwood was on the move again. Sweeping the left side, he made a fancy cutback and romped 59 yards for the touchdown to put Hillsdale ahead for good.

Late in the third quarter, Hillsdale finally put together a legitimate drive. Following a short Terra Nova punt, the Knights rolled 59 yards on nine straight running plays and scored on Mike Cox' three-yard burst up the middle.

Midway through the final period, Terra Nova threatened to make the score close, moving to the Hillsdale 28-yard line. But the Tigers failed on fourth and inches to go for the first down, on a broken play.

Difference: A 52-yarder

It didn't seem all that important at the time, although it certainly was impressive.

With 6:53 left in the first half of El Camino High's football game at Capuchino Friday afternoon, 6-1 junior Scott Leet calmly booted a 52-yard field goal, which cleared the uprights by about three feet.

That broke the scoring ice for El Camino, which trailed 7-3 at the time. But the field goal by Leet proved to the difference in the game, as the Colts rallied in the final quarter for a well-deserved 17-13 win over the Mustangs. Both teams are now 1-1 in the non-league season.

Capuchino had turned the ball over three times in the first half, and was lucky to be trailing only 10-7 at half. The Mustangs got their score on a 14-yard pass from Jeff Monteroso to running back John Sbragia, who broke several tackles along the way.

Camino went ahead when Jon Rodriguez recovered a fumble by Gary Ryan in the end zone. The scoring drive started after Paul Heim fell on a Cap bobble on the Mustang 18.

The Mustangs started the second half determined, and took advantage of a rare Colt error, a fumble on the EC 18, when quarterback Rob Canepa was sacked.

Sophomore Mike Monteroso bulled in for the go-ahead touchdown with 4:53 left in the third period. The extra-point kick was good, but Cap was detected holding. The second kick was blocked and it was 13-10.

On Camino's first possession of the final period, things didn't look good. The Colts were caught holding on first down, giving them a first-and-27 situation on their own 23.

Canepa got four himself and then connected with Bill Aguero for 10 more. That left EC with third-and-13. Canepa and Ryan then collaborated on the play that broke Cap's back.

The Colt quarterback was forced to scramble and, after he rolled out, found Ryan wide-open down the middle. Before he could be collared on Cap's 14, he had gained 49 yards.

Three plays later Ryan got the winning score from five yards out. Leet added the extra point.

Cap had two more shots. The first drive ended in a punt from the Mustang 46. And Jimmy Noonan's second inteception of the day with 1:00 left to play ended Capuchino's afternoon.

Canepa had a great day for the Colts, completing nine of 13 tosses for 135 yards. Jeff Monteroso was almost as good for Cap, hitting on 11 of 14 for 125 yards but had two interceptions. Strangely after completing seven of nine in the first half, the Mustangs threw just five more times.

M-A defense stops Sharks

Demonstrating in textbook form what it means to make your own breaks, Menlo-Atherton High's opportunistic football team defeated visiting Oceana 21-10 in a non-league encounter Friday.

Oceana outgained M-A 253 yards to 154, and the Sharks were penalized for only 55 yards while the Bears were penalized for an astronomical 126. But M-A's defense not only got tough when it had to, stopping the Sharks three times on fourth-down plays in Bear territory; it also accounted for two of the Bears' three touchdowns.

With M-A leading 7-3 late in the first half, the Bear defense broke Oceana's back — and, as it turned out, pretty much put the game on ice — by putting the Bears' second touchdown on the board on the second-to-last play from scrimmage in the half.

The Bears, who generally controlled the line of scrimmage all afternoon (Oceana gained 25 yards on the ground), broke through to sack Shark quarterback John Brown. The ball squirted loose, and M-A defensive back Shedrick Watts alertly scooped it up and raced 71 yards to paydirt.

Midway through the third quarter, the Bear defense struck again. M-A broke through to nail Brown just as he was pitching the ball out to a running back on an option run toward the left side. Bear defender Geff Pausa picked the ball up and rambled 62 yards for M-A's final touchdown.

"We have the personnel to do the job," said Bear Coach Ben Parks. "Our defensive backs, our linebackers and the secondary all did a good job. So did the interior line — we controlled the line of scrimmage."

Brown, who generally passed well despite the fact that he was often rushed heavily by the Bears, put the ball in the air 45 times, completing 18 of his passes for 228 yards. M-A cornerback Greg Ellis said he wasn't surprised Oceana threw so often.

"We had scouted them, and we knew they like to throw to number 80 (Shark wide reciever Mark Donham, who had 11 receptions for 159 yards)," said Ellis. "I think we did a good job — we had a lot of receivers to cover."

"We've got a new offense this year," said Brown, who connected with a total of five receivers. "I think we've still got to polish it up more, but we're trying to mix our plays up more this year."

Oceana placekicker Ron Haas gave the Sharks an early 3-0 lead when he kicked a 17-yard field goal on the Sharks' first possession. M-A, however, didn't allow Oceana to score again until the game's final play from scrimmage, when Donham lost his left cleat in the left corner of the end zone — but found a 15-yard spiral from Brown for the Sharks' only touchdown.

M-A took a 7-3 lead with less than two minutes remaining in the half when quarterback Brad Wentz hit running back Glenn Miller with a swing pass in the right flat and Miller high-stepped over a fallen defender for an 11-yard touchdown.

Oceana	3	0	0	7—10
Menlo-Atherton	0	14	7	0—21

Scoring—O: Haas 17 FG; MA: Miller 11 pass from Wentz (Maren kick); MA: Watts 71 run with fumble recovery (Maren kick); MA: Pause 62 run with fumble recovery (Maren kick); O: Donham 15 pass from Brown (Haas kick).

The Giants future

Not much improvement seen

Le Pacini

Bob Lurie and Spec Richardson are in tough. They have a team that was supposed to be a contender which instead will finish with the worst Giants season since 1976, when they weren't supposed to be a contender.

Their product had the fifth largest loss of attendance in the big leagues this year, and the prospects for increasing that attendance next season are bleak because there doesn't seem to be a lot of hope on the horizon.

Phoenix, the Giants' top farm club, finished last in the PCL this year, and looked pretty bad doing it. And too much of their potential trade material from the big club had poor seasons, which puts the Giants in the position of trading from weakness.

Hindsight is wonderful, and it makes us think that Richardson should have followed the old baseball adage about trading from strength, i.e., trade players after they've had good years. Especially the ones who probably played over their heads. And there is now ample evidence that the Giants had a few of those.

THERE MAY be some hope because of three encouraging developments on the pitching staff, which, despite all the problems and disappointments this year is still the Giants' strong point.

Just when it appeared that the Giants were going to HAVE to trade for a solid starter, John Curtis came through, and then Ed Whitson showed signs that he could fill that role better than the relief role for which Pittsburgh apparently had been grooming him. And then Greg Minton emerged as the right handed short reliefer the Giants have desperately needed for the past couple of years.

Curtis, Whitson and Minton will allow the Giants to trade at least one of their "Big Four" — Vida Blue, Bob Knepper, John Montefusco and Ed Halicki — for the left handed power hitting outfielder they need. Assuming, of course, in this new era of players' rights and complicated and huge contracts, that such a man is available for what the Giants are willing to give.

AND THERE'S the rub. None of the "Big Four" had a good season. And, now that they've discovered Whitson (who, statistically, hasn't had a good season, anyway) and Curtis (whose terrible relief work gives him unimpressive "numbers," too) and Minton, they wouldn't want to trade them. Especially Whitson, because of public relations. Trade the man for whom they traded Bill Madlock?

So it's back to the "Big Four." Of these, Halicki seems the best candidate to go, if Richardson can find a team willing to trade a big hitter for a man with Halicki's statistics and record of illness and injuries and various other problems.

Why, then, with all of these infirmities, is Halicki the most logical trade bait? Well, it's hard to give up on Blue who, one must admit, has a track record. All power pitchers go through such seasons — as they get older — of transformation.

Or maybe Vida just had one of those bad seasons that even the best of players sometimes have. Also consider Vida's big and long contract. Would another team want to take that on? There may be as strong a chance that Blue is finished as there is that he just had an off-season. Any 30-year-old who has thrown as hard as Blue has for as many years is pitching on borrowed time.

IN 1978, Knepper may have been the best southpaw in the National League. He's young and healthy and seems only to have missed Herm Starette. You don't trade that kind of quality away because of immaturity. And you can't let some other team take advantage of his bad year with a cheap trade.

Montefusco was one of the best right handers in the NL during his first two full seasons with the Giants. For three years now he has been plagued with bad luck (injuries and well pitched games that he couldn't win) and a big mouth. For Montefusco, you can ditto the last two sentences about Knepper.

That leaves Big Ed, who of the foursome, has the worst track record; one winning season (16-12 in 1977) and a history of illness, injury and complaining.

Of course, that brings us right back to the trading from weakness dilemma.

As I said, Lurie and Richardson are in tough.

BASEBALL MISCELLANY:

The old baseball "salary drive" in late season is over because of the large, long-term contracts, and that is sad for fans of teams out of contention. In the old days, once all of the pennant races were about decided, at least the fans of the also-rans could root for their heroes' statistics.

Actually, I shouldn't make such blanket statements, because there exists in Oakland some evidence of a vestige of that type of attitude among the players as the season draws to a close. Only in Oakland it isn't a salary drive, it's a "trade drive." Sad when a player has to play well only so that he can get away.

THE PHILLIES are another example of not being able to "buy" a pennant. All they needed was million dollar baby Pete Rose to put them over the top, right?

If pennants could literally be bought, then the Red Sox, when Tom Yawkey was in his spending prime, never would have lost a pennant in the 1940s and 1950s. But they were always beaten by the Yankees, who grew their own, "bought" and traded selectively to fill in rare holes, and who, generally, were just a sharper organization. And that's all it still takes, as witness the Orioles.

There is no substitute for brains.

It looks like the Year of the East in baseball this season. In both eastern divisions of the big leagues, there is only one team (New York in the NL and Toronto in the AL) playing below .500 ball.

IT'S HAPPENING, and perhaps faster than expected. When the ladies insisted on equal athletic rights and budgets, they were also asking for all of the headaches and shoddy practices inherent in men's sports. But they didn't believe it could happen to them. They were the sensible, sensitive half.

Now, Old Dominion University's women's basketball team, touted to repeat as national champs, has been placed on a two year probation for a recruiting violation.

The Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women has also reprimanded and censured Old Dominion for the infraction leading to the probation — an illegal recruiting trip last year by coach Marianne Stanley.

Humans are humans — especially American humans — and that's why, I'm afraid, that a woman President (as Rosalynn Carter is already proving) would never make a difference.

SUDDEN THOUGHT:

The 49ers may need protection from The Mob. They're killing the gamblers. As this is written, they've beaten the point spread every week. If Bill Walsh suddenly shows up on the sidelines some week with two broken knee caps, you'll know why.

FOOTBALL TRIVIA:

Papa Bear George Halas is the only man in the history of sport to have ever played three team sports on a major league level.

You all know, of course, of his football background, and if you've been reading this column, you know that he not only played right field for the Yankees, but was replaced by Babe Ruth. George was also the owner of and a player on the Bruins, who played in the old American Basketball League from 1925-31.

It was too easy

With just six seconds elapsed in the second quarter Saturday, College of San Mateo's football team had taken a 28-0 lead over visiting Ohlone.

That big lead was part of the Bulldogs' problems as CSM plastered outmanned Ohlone 42-10 before a sparse crowd on the hilltop. The Bulldogs will take a 1-1 record into Golden Gate Conference play at Diablo Valley next week.

Things started too easily for CSM. Seemingly every time Ohlone would make a mistake, CSM would capitalize immediately.

Bulldog freshman quarterback Kendall Gomez, who hadn't even earned the starting job yet, got those first four scores, on TD tosses of 20, 65, 17 and 25 yards, two going to all-GGC returnee Perry Parmelee.

But Gomez, after that brilliant start in which he hit on 10 of his first 12, couldn't sustain the early momentum. CSM spent the rest of the chilly day sputtering, being hurt by lack of a running game and constantly plagued by penalties (12 for 142 yards).

After Gomez's start, he and his relief, Mark Geenan, could combine for just eight of 22 and only one score, a 78-yard toss by Geenan to Ted Nicholson.

The Bulldog running game netted only 52 yards total. Gomez was dropped for losses seven of his nine carries.

Jefferson's Rodgers gets help

Jefferson High quarterback Richard Rodgers may be the most highly recruited prep back around this season, but he's more than willing to share the glory.

In Jeff's belated debut Saturday, Rodgers ran for a touchdown and passed for another in a 45-14 non-league win over McAteer of San Francisco.

But the Indians were just as devastating when Rodgers handed off. Doug Cheatum scampered for 98 yards and three touchdowns in 13 carries, and Sam Smith added 105 yards in 12 carries.

Jeff is now 1-1. Because of difficulties caused by the teachers' strike in Jefferson's district, last week's scheduled opener was forfeited to Crestmoor.

Ron Fassler, who had ben scheduled to take over the Jeff coaching reins this year, reportedly did not cross picket lines. He was relieved of his duties, which are now being handled by Jack McGuire and Lou Sanchez.

The situation may sound chaotic, but apparently it didn't hurt the Indians much Saturday; they had McAteer outclassed.

Rodgers, apparently a perfectionist, wasn't completely pleased with Jeff's effort.

"Because we had a good first quarter we dropped off a little in the second," he said. "Then we realized we had to stay up in the second half. We have a winning, experienced team. If we had been younger, it might have been different."

La Potiniere French onion soup superb

French onion soup, when it is prepared "just right," is often considered to be one of the true delights of French cuisine. Those who consider themselves experienced in such matters report that the "Soupe a l'Onion Gratinee" as featured at the LA POTINIERE French restaurant in downtown San Mateo is a culinary creation ... For something a little different for lunch, drop by HANA JAPAN Japanese Steak House in San Mateo and let Co-owner chef DENNY YUNE and Hostess Chung introduce you to their luncheon lineup ... Early reports on innovation at LES JON'S bar restaurant in Burlingame of the full family-style dinners, featuring ARNAUD'S authentic Basque food, are enthusiastic. Two meat courses (just like in the "good old days") are included in the old-time dinners. Lunches are also served ... Dining on gourmet seafood is elevated almost to an art form in the nautical Polynesian setting of CAPTAIN CHARLES, the surfside seafood restaurant in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. The Pacific Ocean provides a panorama just outside the huge picture windows. In the same restaurant complex are NICK'S for steaks and Italian food, and THE MOONRAKER for deluxe continental cuisine ... The sangria is an excellent complement to any of the more than 20 tempting Mexican dishes on the menu at LA PINATA Mexican restaurant in downtown Burlingame.

Entrees prepared tableside is a feature in the gourmet Constellation Room at RAY PLUNKETT'S TAHOE MARINER hotel/casino in North Lake Tahoe. Among the selections are Beef on Brouchette, Roast Long Island Duckling and New Zealand Lamb ... Maynard Ferguson, the pop music giant who did the theme for the hit movies "Rocky" and "Rocky II," will perform in concert with his Big Band next Friday at 8 p.m. at the Fox Warfield Theater in San Francisco, and PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce Steakery nearby on the lower level of the Hilton Tower ... As dedicated spaghetti lovers know, one of the most delightful recipes is Spaghetti with Pesto Sauce (made with garlic and basil), which is available at ROMANO'S in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica ... Good Chinese food need not be expensive. Discover GONG'S Chinese restaurant in South San Francisco, where Owner/ chef JOHN CHIANG has as his slogan "Less frills and more taste" — with emphasis on high quality at low prices ... JOHN'S PLACE, the self-styled "working man's bar" in downtown Burlingame, puts out just the kind of good food at sensible low prices you'd expect to find at a good eating and drinking place ... Every day and evening brings a bountiful buffet for lunch and dinner at THE KING'S TABLE in Redwood City. Special dinner feature on Friday and Saturday nights. Champagne Buffet Brunch on Sundays.

Francis Flores is one of the gifted members of the Eve-Ettes chorus line at Finocchio's. This world famed night spot in San Francisco is open six nights a week (closed Mondays) offering four different shows nightly.

Ladies' Night Tues. at Cypress House

Fresh flowers and soft light filtering through stained glass windows enhance the decor at the unique CYPRESS HOUSE in Half Moon Bay. It's a natural setting for "Ladies Night" (every Tuesday), when drinks are half price for all women from 6 to 9 p.m. Complimentary hors d'oeuvres, also ... Japanese food lovers have discovered the new KOHARU JAPANESE CUISINE in San Mateo as a gourmet's delight. Owners ROSE and TED OSAKI are offering a wide variety of beef, chicken and seafood specialties ... The new six-foot television screen in the lounge of SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S restaurant is making a hit with Monday night football fans as they sit back in comfortable chairs while sipping and rooting ... The epicurean touch of master chef VINCENZO LA GRASSO is evidenced in the creative preparation of the specialties which grace the menu at his DAL BAFFO European restaurant in Menlo Park. Grenadine of Beef a la Baffo from the rotisserie is a dinner entree of exquisite taste ... Late report from TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT in Moss Beach: As long as TILLIE can still get fresh-caught salmon from the local fishermen, she will serve it as an entree choice on the family-style all-you-can-eat "Family Night" dinners every Wednesday evening. The $4.29 price also includes tureen of soup, salad, rice, vegetables, dessert and complimentary glass of wine.

Top-selling drink at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in the heart of San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," during our recent recordbreaking heat wave was the Midori Melon Daiquiri. A year-around favorite, this instant refresher is made with imported Midori Melon Liqueur and has the taste of fresh honeydew melons ... That delectable seafood dish that dates from Gold Rush days and made famous in song, story, and verse called "Hangtown Fry" is a consistant favorite with every generation of patrons at VINCE'S Seafood and Seafood restaurant in San Mateo. The secret of this dish is the freshness and quality of the oysters ... LEHR'S GREENHOUSE in San Francisco gets a big publicity break in Helen Van Slyke's new novel, "A Necessary Woman," when two characters in the book dine at MURRAY LEHR'S famed garden in full bloom ... If you happen to be dining at GARE SAINT LAZARE French restaurant situated in the old SP Railroad Depot in Burlingame when a train rumbles by, you'll be pleasantly surprised with the little byplay that livens things up in the dining room, which has been created in the remodeled interior of the little station ... One of the reasons a hambubger is such a popular luncheon choice at BAYHILL LOUNGE, San Bruno, is that it isn't "just a hamburger." Like everything else on the menu, it is carefully prepared. Specially ground fresh meat is charcoal grilled (not fried).

The Regent

By ROBIN MOELLER
Commission of Publicity
Serramonte High School

With three weeks gone by and still no signs of the strike being ended, increasing concern became apparent.

A concerned parents' group was formed, under the head of Mrs. Sangimino. This group, along with students from all of the district's high schools, planned a march for Thursday, Sept. 20, at 3 p.m. The march would start at Serramonte High School, hit the AFT building, and then continue on to the Westlake Shopping Center — where the district offices are located.

During the strike, classes are held at Fairmont. These classes are conducted by qualified teachers. A variety of subjects are offered including: SAT (Scholarship Aptitude Test) training, math analysis, advanced composition, etc.

Credits aren't received for attending the Fairmont classes. However, for attending ordinary classes at Serramonte only extra credits are received, during the strike.

Regular credits are given to everyone, regardless if they go to school or not. The board can change this, though, if they choose. If the strike went on for an entire quarter, grades could be affected — as the substitute teachers would be giving out the quarter grades.

By Sept. 18, four teachers had returned to Serramonte. A higher percentage of teachers had been reported to have returned to the other high schools in the district.

Students interested in taking the November SAT should pick up a form in the register's office and turn in their money by Friday, Sept. 27. Those who wished to take the October test should have turned in their money by Friday, Sept 21.

Another SAT test will be given in December. Anyone can take the test as many times as they wish, however, you have to pay each time you take the test and few people ever improve more than 50 points a test. Another test will be given in December.

Many students still feel the classes during the strike, being run by substitute teachers, are inadequate. Some expressed views state that the substitute teachers are not really the ones to blame — since they never have the same students present in class and because textbooks cannot be issued. Where then does the fault lie? And who is to blame?

This is more a question of opinion than fact. Some students blame the Board, claiming they are being stubborn and unreasonable — like when they reportedly walked out on negotiations with the teachers' union, apparently without due cause. There are those who feel the board is on a type of "power trip."

There are other students that place the blame on the teachers, and would like to see them all fired. They believe teachers are making enough money, and should have gone into the teaching profession because of their enjoyment of kids and teaching — not for the money.

At Serramonte, as elsewhere, opinions vary — the blame of the strike can probably not be totally placed on any one group.

Parents! Your child's first job could make a difference!

Look around. Some of the most successful people you know were once newspaper carriers! There's a good reason for that. Being a carrier is more than a first job . . . it's an unforgettable learning experience. It teaches young people how to use their time wisely . . . to handle money . . . to deal with different kinds of people. It gives them feelings of confidence, pride and accomplishment for handling an important responsibility reliably and well. And what's more, it's fun! Carriers get the chance to win great prizes and exciting trips and share experiences with other young people their own age. So why not talk to your son or daughter about becoming a newspaper carrier? A small part of each day can make the difference of a lifetime.

NEW OFFICER

DEPLOYED

Navy Seaman Apprentice Edward P. McNab, son of Hugh D. and Jean M. McNab, 1073 S. Mayfair Ave., Daly City, recently departed for a deployment in the Western Pacific.

He is a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Bainbridge, homeported in San Diego. While deployed his ship will operate as a unit of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Dubing the cruise, the Bainbridge is scheduled to participate in various training exercises with other 7th Fleet units and those of allied nations. Port visits are scheduled in several Far Eastern countries.

The Bainbridge is 565 feet long, displaces 8,580 tons and carries a crew of 450 officers and enlisted men. She is outfitted with guns, missile launchers, torpedoes and an anti-submarine rocket launcher.

A 1975 graduate of Riordan High School, San Francisco, McNab joined the Navy in January 1977.

Center for Independence of Disabled wins lease of Belmont fire station

The countywide Center for Independence of the Disabled finally obtained Belmont City Council's approval Monday night to lease a vacated fire station next to City Hall although Councilwoman Meg Buckley said the city is subsidizing the service "to an unfair extent."

The council, after an hour-long debate, voted 4-1 to approve an amended memorandum of understanding to sign the lease with Mrs. Buckley dissenting.

Councilwoman Pam Ketcham, who had voted against the lease at a meeting on Sept. 11, agreed to the terms of the proposed lease amendments in the discussion Monday.

The revised lease eases Belmont's responsibilities for paying for certain improvements on the building if it should cancel the lease with the center before six years has ended.

According to Director Johanna Wallace, the center must obtain final approval from the county Board of Supervisors today because Housing and Community Development funds are involved. However, the county's approval is expected to come easily and the center will then be open for business on Monday.

Renovation work, she said, will probably not begin for a month or more.

The lease — which the agency and city staff have been hammering out for months — requires a lump-sum payment to the city of $19,800 at the time it begins. The initial two-year lease is followed by options for extension.

However, if Belmont chooses to cancel the lease or does not extend the [illegible] least six years, the city must take over ammortization of the renovation payments amounting to a total of some $50,000.

The revised lease stipulated this time that the city will not pay for amortization of partitions and carpeting in the garage area inside the building. Those items, the council contended, will not benefit the city if it choses to convert the building back into a fire station.

The hearing on the lease got off to a rocky start when the council couldn't even get the item on the agenda without clashing.

Councilman Walt Worthge — who has openly worked with the center in securing the fire station — attempted to bring the item before the council since it wasn't listed on the agenda. Councilwoman Meg Buckley, however, made a motion against such a last-minute action without giving public notice.

Worthge, however, mistakenly voted for the motion. Mrs. Ketcham accused him of automatically voting for it when he heard her vote in opposition. It was, she said, a "travesty" to see the votes fall in place in that manner.

Worthge, however, salvaged the potential agenda item by calling for "a motion to reconsider" and then switching his vote. Mrs. Buckley and Frank Gonsalves voted against placing the lease on the agenda.

After evaluating the revised lease presented by City Attorney Ken Dickerson, Johanna Wallace, director of the center, walked to the podium andpresented the council with what she called a symbol of "appreciation" for the city's cooperation in this matter.

It was a brass bell in a wooden box engraved "Belmont Volunteer Fire Department." Mrs. Wallace said her staff found the bell buried "in the deep recesses of the fire station" and she thought the council would like it. "It belongs to us. I don't know why they are giving it to us," Mrs. Buckley muttered.

"I'm glad you like it," Mrs. Wallace said after Mayor William Hardwick gave it a clang.

The council proceeded to consider the lease with Mrs. Buckley advising the center staff that it is "taking a calculated risk" in leasing the station since the council might overturn the lease for another use — such as a return to fire services — in the near future.

She was critical of the amount of the lease which City Manager James DeChaine computed to equal about 20.5 cents per square foot. A comparable building in the commercial area, Mrs. Buckley said, is renting at 86 cents per square foot.

She said, she could probably agree to a maximum lease of two years but no longer.

Worthge, however, said that the center would be "an excellent project for the Belmont Fire District to be in."

In response to suggestions that other sites in the county were available, Worthge said this particular building is conveniently located.

San Bruno City Council fails to stop condo conversions; hits book 'keepers'

A San Bruno developer won a small victory and library book hoarders were dealt a blow Monday night.

Although the San Bruno City Council cast three votes in favor of an ordinance that would stop the processing of condominium conversion applications and two against it, the measure failed.

City Attorney Joseph Galligan explained that the measure required four votes to be enacted as an urgency ordinance.

Asked what would happen if theresolution were approved as a regular ordinance, he noted that it only would go into effect for a few days before the city's moratorium on condominium conversions ended. (The moratorium expires Nov. 9.)

The resolution was aimed at the Shelter Creek Apartments, a complex that owners say they intend to convert to condominiums.

Mayor Richard Griffith has criticized the city staff's processing of Shelter Creek's application during the moratorium on conversions.

Planning Director Juan Garcia said the city staff feels obligated under state law to inform developers of the documents they need to complete their applications.

Councilmen Thomas Ricci and John Barnard said they voted against the application-processing measure because they do not consider it to be a matter of great urgency.

"No application will be approved before the city's ordinance is finalized," Ricci remarked.

He was referring to a tougher condominium conversion ordinance that the Planning Commission has been revising for the past two months. It must be approved by the City Council after the commission okays it.

Since the Planning Commission is taking so long to hammer out the ordinance, the council decided to consider extending its moratorium on conversions at its Oct. 22 meeting.

The council members spent far longer in a nickle-and-dime discussion on library fines.

They rejected City Librarian Beth Svee's proposal to double most fines for overdue materials as not being stringent enough.

For example, she suggested that the fine for overdue books be increased from 5 to 10 cents per day for adults and from 3 to 5 cents per day for juniors, with a maximum fee of $2.

Mrs. Svee commented, "We felt if a fine is too high, a person would walk out with the item. We would rather have the item."

Barnard said he resents the amount of time library personnel spend collecting such small fines.

Dawkins agreed, "Two dollars wouldn't even buy breakfast at Lyons."

The audience laughed at this reference to Councilman Gary Mondfrans' criticism of a late-night breakfast "conspiracy" at Lyonsfollowing a recent council meeting.

After much discussion, the council narrowly adopted two fees that are more stringent than Mrs. Svee had proposed: a 25-cent-per-day charge for overdue records (up from 5 cents for adults and 3 cents for juniors) and a maximum fee equal to the actual cost of audio visual materials.

Dawkins and Barnard opposed the measure.

"We're running a free supply house for bums and thieves," harumphed Dawkins.

Among the other new fees are 10 cents per day for overdue books, magazines and pamphlets, 25 cents per day for overdue tapes, 25 cents for a lost borrower's card, $1 for a lost book card and a $2 processing charge, plus the cost of lost or irreparably damaged materials.

However, Mrs. Svee said the library plans to sponsor a "Fine Free Month" after a new security system is installed that will enable borrowers to return overdue materials without penalties.

Other business:

Commissioner — The council voted 4-1, over Griffith's objections, not to fill a vacant slot on the Planning Commission at the present time and to reopen applications.

Card Room — Alex Carantzalis did not win his bid to avoid paying the $1,600-per-year fee for the card room license the city granted him. Carantzalis argued that he hasn't used the license since March, because he can't find a suitable location for a card room. The council unanimously directed its staff to revoke his license if he didn't pay up Tuesday.

Community Center — The council asked its staff to look into Doris E. Christiansen's suggestion that the city build a new community center at 520 S. San Anselmo Ave.

Lights — The council approved installation of high pressure sodium vapor lights at Sylvan Avenue parking lot.

GIRL SCOUTING

Girl Scout membership in troops is being actively recruited by the Daly City Area Girl Scout Association, according to Association Chairman Mrs. Mary Ann Dale.

Most schools in the area have liaisons, women who try and match girls with troop leaders and the names of the liaisons are available from each school.

If a liaison is not available for any school, parents may find openings in Girl Scout troops through Mrs. Caroline Futrell, membership coordinator or Mrs. Dale, association chairman.

Girl Scout troops traditionally start meeting the second week of school. Scouting is available in the Brownie level for first, second and third graders; in the junior level for fourth, fifth and sixth graders, in the cadette level for seventh, eighth and ninth graders and in the senior level for high school students.

Girls need not have prior Scouting experience to join at any age and adult leaders, consultants and advisors are always needed to expand the program.

A Scout troop can meet in the evenings or on Saturday, at the decision of the leader, therefore working women have become an important factor in Girl Scout leadership.

Someone no longer must be a "mommy" to be a Girl Scout leader, according t› Executive Director Ms. Margaret McClennan.

Hookers' Ball 'home'

The annual Hookers' Ball, staged at the Cow Palace in Daly City last year, is going "home" to San Francisco this time around.

The affair, which drew an estimated 12,000 to 14,000 persons to the Cow Palace last fall, required patrolling by 150 police and resulted in two stabbings and 20 arrests, will be at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium Oct. 28.

Daly City Police Chief David Hansen said this week what he said last year: "I don't think Daly City is the site for that thing."

"I'm just delighted," he said this week, although conceding that "It went off all right last year, considering the flavor and tenor of the thing." But he went on "For the good of the ball, it's best for it to be in San Francisco."

By that he meant first, of course, that local law enforcement was overstretched by the hordes of people who flocked to the Cow Palace, many of them gaily costumed, and with their own ideas of what constitutes a good time. The parking lot stabbings last year, neither fatal, were the result of a brawl. The other arrests were for public drunkenness.

The Hookers' Ball had been in San Francisco previous years and drawn large crowds. But reports last year were that it was becoming a tourist attraction more than a serious fundraising affair for the Victoria Woodhall Foundation.

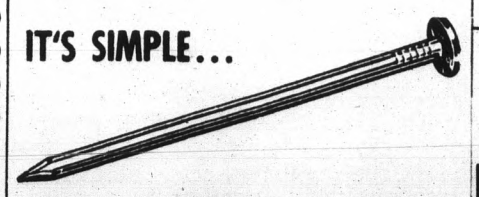
IT'S SIMPLE...



BUT WORKS WONDERS

A nail builds tall buildings . . . bridges canyons and rivers . . . makes toys . . . ties communication lines to utility poles . . . holds things together.

The newspaper is a simple idea that works wonders, too. It moves merchandise . . . doctors the economy . . . distributes jobs . . . finds people to do jobs . . . informs, educates and entertains.

When you want to sell, buy, rent, hire or announce . . . think of the simple idea that works.
